Cherry-Quartersawn

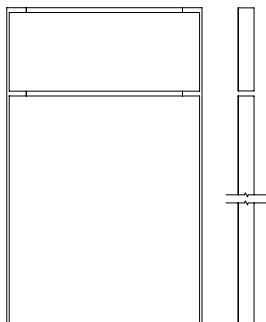

Cherry is an elegant, multicolored hardwood, which may contain small knots and pinholes. Natural or light stains accent these color variations making a distinctive statement in a full kitchen. Cherry wood will darken or “mellow” with age. This mellowing is a natural occurrence and the benefit of owning a Cherry kitchen.

Quartersawn refers to the method of cutting the Cherry. Boards are cut through the radius of the rings allowing wavy grain and flaked patterns to show on the face.

Hickory

Hickory is a strong, open-grained wood that is known for its wide variation in color. It is not uncommon to see doors or parts of doors that range in color from light to a deep brown when finished in light or natural stains. Darker stains will mildly tone these color variations. These characteristics are what makes each Hickory kitchen unique and the preference of those that love wood.

Hickory-Rustic

Hickory is a strong, open-grained wood that is known for its wide variation in color. It is not uncommon to see doors or parts of doors that range in color from light to a deep brown when finished in light or natural stains. Darker stains will mildly tone these color variations. These characteristics are what make each Hickory kitchen unique and the preference of those that love wood. The character of Rustic Hickory may include some combination of open knots, wormholes and mineral streaks reflecting the inherent qualities in the natural beauty of wood.

Must order matching end panels for rustic finished ends.

Maple-Quartersawn

Hard Maple is a strong, close-grained wood that is predominantly off-white in color, although it also contains light hues of yellow-brown and pink. Hard Maple occasionally contains light tan or small dark mineral streaks. Quartersawn refers to the method of cutting the Maple. Boards are cut through the radius of the rings allowing wavy grain and flaked patterns to show on the face.

Oak-Quartersawn

Red Oak is a strong open-grained wood that has a range in color of white, yellow and pink. Red Oak is sometimes streaked with green, yellow and black mineral deposits and may contain some wide grain. Quartersawn refers to the method of cutting the Red Oak. Boards are cut through the radius of the rings allowing wavy grain and flaked patterns to show on the face.
